THE FEDERAL THEATRE

FEDERAL THEATRE is composed of approximately two hundred professional theatre companies throughout the United States operating with the support of the Federal Government. Its aim is to bring to the people, theatre entertainment of professional quality, especially those in communities long deprived of living theatre. It is the hope that the public will so enjoy the entertainment they offer that it will eventually retain them on a permanent, self-supporting basis. In the interim, the admission fee charged for some of these performances is used to improve the quality of the productions to enable Federal Theatre companies to bring entertainment to the greatest possible number of the American people.
